hello

The magazine you're holding right now is the 100th issue of DISNEY ADVENTURES. To celebrate, we looked back at all the covers we've done since our first issue in November 1990 (see page 43).

Our top cover choice over the years? Dinosaurs! They've appeared on the D.A. cover six times so far (counting the "Dinosaurs" TV show in February 1992). Jim Carrey takes second place, with four covers, and the Power Rangers come in third with three covers.

And here's a peek at a couple of covers that we tested but didn't use: the Beatles and "The X-Files."

Who will we put on the cover for the next 100 issues? Keep your eye on DISNEY ADVENTURES and find out!

Covers (from top to bottom): Issue No. 1; top-ranking cover subject; the "X-Files" and Beatles covers (never used).

Adventure On!

Wake-Up Scare

While camping, I was awakened suddenly and left my tent to find out what time it was. When I looked back, I saw a wild boar circling my tent! It looked in and was about to go inside to investigate when a couple of boys in another tent got noisy and scared it away. I was so stunned—it felt like my heart was beating 100 mph!

Sara Cristensen, 14
Roseburg, Oregon

Bye-Bye, Bad Guy

In April's story about Movieland, you forgot something. In practically every car chase scene, the good guy has to slam on the brakes after the bad guy has just managed to get past a hidden semi or freight train.

Veronica Bowers, 10, Fort Collins, Colorado

Turtle Talk

I do not agree with turtles being on the Not list [April's Hot-o-Meter]. Take my pet turtle, for example. He swims, sunbathes, watches TV and takes showers. Not bad for a shelly reptile, huh?

Brad Dement, 10
Twinsburg, Ohio

Don't Mess With The Force

In your April Hot-o-Meter, the sixth-grade class said that Star Wars was not a Hot movie. Yeah, right. Star Wars will never go out of style!

Drew will make us happy playing Cinderella in her upcoming movie, Ever After: A Cinderella Story. And check out next month's On The Scene for more Kids' Choice Awards coverage....Celine Dion hits the road August 21 for her "Let's Talk About Love" North American tour. She'll perform songs, including Titanic's "My Heart Will Go On," from a stage in the center of the audience. So there shouldn't be a bad seat in the house....And speaking of tours, rumor has it Mariah Carey might do some live shows, too—if she can stand being away from her new boyfriend, New York Yankees shortstop Derek Jeter, that long!

And now I'll answer one of your questions.

Dear Liz,

I have a question about Savage Garden. I think the people on the album cover are both guys. But when the group performed "Truly Madly Deeply" on the Blockbuster Entertainment Awards, there was a girl singing, too. Who is in the band?

Somphanat Phengphanh, 11
Stockton, California

Dear Somphanat,

Good question! The only permanent band members are Darren Hayes and Daniel Jones, the two guys pictured on the CD cover. But when they perform live, back-up singer Anna Maria LaSpina sings "Truly Madly Deeply" with Darren. (Listen for Savage Garden's new single, "To The Moon & Back," on radio stations now!)

Lucky the dog

Doctor Dolittle, can talk with all kinds of animals. We got the scoop on Eddie's wild co-stars from animal trainer Mark Forbes.

Character: Lucky the dog

Rodney the guinea pig and the circus tiger with their favorite doctor

Wouldn't you like to talk with your dog? Dr.

Dolittle can! The doc, played by Eddie Murphy in the new movie

Rat No. 1 or Rat No. 2?

"Guinea pigs don't move their heads when they look up, so we had to train them to do that."

Character: The circus tiger

Characters: The two married pigeons

Played by: Eight different pigeons

Hardest trick: Doing things together. "We ended up with some birds that fly together well and others that stay in one spot together."

Characters: Rat No. 1 and Rat No. 2

Played by: 15 different rats

Hardest trick: Wrestling. "They're supposed to be fighting, so we taught them to sit up, hold on to each other and roll around."

Terrific Teachers

School may not be your choice for the best place to spend a sunny day, but you gotta admit that some teachers are really cool.

Disney salutes those teachers on the "American Teacher Awards," which air on Disney Channel, June 20. To get ready for the show, we got the scoop on some celebrities' coolest teachers:

"I had a great teacher in grade seven," says Jim Carrey. If Jim behaved all day, his teacher would let him do dinosaur impressions for the class!

"Mrs. Hengl, my first-grade teacher, taught me how to read within a month!" says David Gallagher, "7th Heaven."

"My seventh-grade English teachers, Mr. Cook and Mr. Bernard, were laid back and fun," says Erin J. Dean, "The Journey of Allen Strange." "And they never once yelled at us."

Will Smith's grade school teachers get credit for part of his rappin' name. "My teachers called me 'Prince' because of my incredible charm. I just oozed charm," Will says.

Flyboy

Asteroid alert! A Texas-size asteroid is about to hit Earth—what to do? Call action hero Bruce Willis, of course! In Armageddon, Bruce plays an oil driller who leads a team of drillers-turned-astronauts to outer space. To stop the cosmic collision, they must dig a really deep hole in the asteroid, plant a nuclear device and blow it to bits. Check out flyboy Bruce, suited up to save the world.

If Bruce were heading out to space in real life, he'd take "a two-year supply of Hershey's with almonds chocolate bars, a couple of good videos and the Tolkien trilogy Lord of the Rings [a series of three books by J.R.R. Tolkien]."

The high-tech space suits worn by Bruce and the other astronauts each weighed 85 pounds. "I was a little cranky about wearing it," admits Bruce. "[Co-star] Ben Affleck didn't like to wear it, either. He was always concerned about his hair and makeup—lots of times, he just burst into tears!" Bruce jokes.

"I probably did about 200 stunts!" says Bruce. "I got slammed around on the asteroid, blasted out of the asteroid hole, and shot at with rocks and ice and Cocoa Puffs." (Bruce isn't joking. The filmmakers sometimes used the cereal because on film it looks like space debris—and it doesn't hurt the actors.)

"[The filmmakers] shot big ice chunks at my space helmet and cracked three or four of them!" says Bruce.

If an asteroid were about to destroy Earth, Bruce would spend his last day bowling. "I'm a big bowler," he says. "Or I'd go kayaking or skiing. Just about anything, really, except watch that big, fiery thing crash into the planet!"

—Liz Smith

Pages 24 & 25: Frank Masi/©Touchstone Pictures & Jerry Bruckheimer Productions, Inc.

Killer Driller

Only the Armadillo, Armageddon's mighty monster truck, can drill into the deadly asteroid's core.

The Armadillo weighs a whopping 23,000 pounds and cost about $1 million.

The drill arm really works. (The bit spins around and the arm goes up and down.)

The Armadillo was built on a Humvee chassis with a Chevy engine. The first time a crew member drove the Armadillo onto the deep, steep asteroid set, he couldn't see very well and crashed! After that, everyone had to take driving lessons.

The 12-wheeled Armadillo can go up to 45 miles an hour! "I was impressed with its speed and tight corners," says director Michael Bay. "But I was most impressed that it didn't break down!"

In the movie, gravity boosters keep the Armadillo on the asteroid's surface. When the thrusters are turned off, the Armadillo floats in space and can jump across ravines!

Mulan's Greatest Moments

Find out how the big scenes in Mulan got to the screen.

By Heidi MacDonald

Welcome to a world of helpful dragons, savage Hun invaders and brave Chinese warriors. Mulan, the newest animated movie from Disney, tells the Chinese legend of a girl who disguises herself as a man in order to join the army. We talked to the people who made Mulan to find out what moments to watch for—and a few secrets from behind the scenes.

JULY 1998 27

Turn the page for more!

1 Mulan's Decision

The scene: Mulan decides to disguise herself as a man by cutting her hair and putting on her father's armor.

Things to look for:

- Mulan's producers decided not to use words at all in this scene. Strong images, music and color tell the story.
- At the start of the scene you see dark and gloomy colors. After Mulan makes her decision, the colors become yellow-orange.
- Mulan's footsteps fall in time with the music to give the scene a driving beat.

3 The Avalanche

The scene: Mulan uses her wits to defeat the invading Hun army by starting an avalanche.

Things to look for:

- This scene—called “Huns on the Run”—includes thousands of Hun warriors and Chinese soldiers.
- To make the avalanche dramatic, the directors imitated the shaky effect of a hand-held camera. They did this by projecting a penciled version of the scene and filming it with a hand-held camera.

2 I'll Make a Man Out of You

The scene: When Mulan starts her training, she's a clumsy new recruit; when she finishes, she's a top-notch soldier.

Things to look for:

- Most of the army exercises are based on training moves from the ancient Shaolin Temple, birthplace of the martial arts. Some, however, were made up—the recruits weren't really made to run through a field of burning arrows!
- At the start of the scene, you see many pale colors. At the end, when Mulan has finished her training, the colors become bold and vibrant. The color red symbolizes Chinese patriotism and energy.
- If you look closely, you'll see that Mulan's eyes have a slightly different shape when she's disguised as Ping, the soldier.

Kung Fu Fighting

Mulan shows her martial arts moves.

Hi-yaa! Mulan gets her cool kicks from the ancient Chinese art of kung fu (or wushu, as it's known in China). Sixth-century monks created wushu as a means of self-defense and to develop agility, strength and good health.

We asked World Martial Arts Hall of Fame member and wushu master Vincent Lyn to help explain a few of Mulan's moves.

Flying Side Kick

1 This offensive move works well in open spaces and was made famous by martial arts movie star Bruce Lee. Your leg is fully locked by snapping it out to the side. You strike the opponent with the outside edge of your foot.

Stepping Back and Repulse the Monkey

2 This stance is used to deflect an opponent's lunge. It was created by a ground-fighting expert who studied and imitated—you guessed it—monkeys. Your weight should be 60 percent on your back foot, 40 percent on the front. "You should prepare to move forward and attack with your right hand," says Vincent.

Sword Coil Around the Head with Bow Stop

3 Here, Mulan adopts this defensive stance while wielding a sword. "The double-edged sword is known as the mother of weapons," Vincent reveals. "According to legend, the sword could change into a dragon."

Turn the page for more!

Grasping the Bird's Tail

4 To do this move, you lunge forward and grab your opponent while striking him in the face with an open palm.

Backward Leaning Stance, Holding the Long Staff

5 The six-foot-long wooden staff is the first weapon a wushu practitioner learns to use. It was developed by a priest who thought that weapons with blades were too warlike.

Armed & Dangerous

Mulan gears up for battle.

Barbarians are invading, and you don't have a thing to wear? Luckily, Mulan never has that problem. Filmmakers did their homework and gave her some fierce gear.

Mulan's armor style dates from the Tang Dynasty, which lasted from 618-907 A.D. Called lamellar armor, it's made of many small iron plates sewn together with leather thread. You can't see all the plates because that would have been too hard to animate.

Mulan's leather shoes are inspired by footwear from the Qin Dynasty of the second century B.C. In ancient China, soldiers usually wore boots. However, moviemakers decided Chinese troops should wear shoes to contrast with the boot-wearing Hun army.

Chinese swords were often decorated with either a dragon, tiger or lion. Mulan's sword hilt bears a carving of an imaginary creature called a "bishie," which could scare demons with its stare.

D.A. goes one-on-one with the creator of "The X-Files."

Man of I

Trust no one. The message was clear as soon as the cast of The X-Files Movie: Fight the Future received their scripts: Each one was printed in red ink on red paper to prevent anyone from photocopying it. Spooky!

Chris Carter, creator of "The X-Files," has dreamed up out-of-this-world creatures and conspiracies for five seasons on TV. Now, he's about to take agents Dana Scully and Fox Mulder to the big screen. D.A. caught up with Chris and asked him to shed a beam of light on his mysterious movie.

When you were a kid, were you into weird, spooky shows?

"I loved spooky shows: 'The Twilight Zone,' 'Night Gallery,' 'The Outer Limits.' These were all shows that I brought with me from my childhood into my adulthood. I used those memories and those fears to create 'The X-Files.'"

What frightened you most back then?

"Things that were believable because they suggested reality, like the Creature from the Black Lagoon. That was terrifying to me. And I try now to bring some of those same shivers to kids."

The X Dream Team:
Gillian Anderson,
creator Chris Carter and David Duchovny

Mystery

Is it true that the movie will resolve a cliff-hanger from this season's finale of the TV show?

"You'll be able to go right from the TV show to the movie and understand exactly how the puzzle pieces fit together. But you won't have to be a constant watcher of the TV show to enjoy the movie."

What can you reveal about the plot?

"It's about Mulder and Scully's ongoing search for the truth about the existence of extraterrestrials—and the conspiracy to keep that truth, whatever it is, from the American people. The story takes the television series and ties up many loose threads that we've sort of purposely left unraveled up to this point."

Was there anything you really wanted to put in the movie that didn't get in?

"There was an 'X-Files' episode that everyone really loved—the cockroach episode—that had a candy we invented, called Choco Droppings. We wanted to put Choco Droppings in a vending machine in the movie, but our lawyers wouldn't let us because they felt it looked too much like somebody else's real candy."

Turn the page for more!

Did anything funny happen while you were shooting the movie?

"We shot a scene in a beautiful park in Los Angeles that appears in the movie as Washington, D.C. Peacocks were roaming around the park, but every time we'd roll film and roll sound, they'd start shrieking like someone was chopping their heads off! The sound editors had to get rid of all that screaming in the movie."

Speaking of huge, considering how Leonardo DiCaprio helped make Titanic such a blockbuster, did you ever think about asking him to play the part in the movie?

"I think it'd be a little expensive to get Leonardo DiCaprio to be an alien!"

The Chris Carter File

What he'd say if he ever met an alien:

"It's about time!"

The "X-Files" creature he'd most like to see in real life:

"The Flukeman, because he reminds me of the Creature from the Black Lagoon. He's one of the creepiest guys we've ever put on the show."

The character he'd least like to see in real life:

"Cigarette-Smoking Man. Even though he's not a monster, I think he's one of the baddest guys on the show."

His advice for kids who want to become paranormal investigators:

"Take an interest in science and use that as a tool to investigate real science as well as the paranormal."

Best fan mail:

"I know a kid named Kenneth Suna, whose name I worked into the show. He wrote me a letter to say that his teacher, a huge 'X-Files' fan, now bows to him every time he walks down the hall because his name was on the show."

On how much he enjoys scaring the pants off people every Sunday night:

"It's what I live for!"

Jordan RULES

Why do we like Mike? Let us count the ways.

It's no secret that this season may be Michael Jordan's last. But nobody knows whether MJ will call it quits or continue conquering the NBA. Whether he goes or stays, His Airness will certainly be remembered as the most explosive hoop player on the planet. Here are a few of our favorite MJ moments:

April 20
1986

Jordan set a playoff record with 63 points in a double-overtime loss to the Boston Celtics. "I think he's God disguised as Michael Jordan," said Celtic Larry Bird after the game. "He put on one of the greatest shows of all time."

March 29
1982

The NCAA final between Georgetown and North Carolina turned out to be a game for the ages. With 15 seconds left, UNC freshman Jordan connected on a game-winning jumper. (Patrick Ewing, who would later join the Knicks, was Georgetown's freshman center.)

The high-flying Jordan won his first of two slam-dunk titles during All-Star weekend with his patented liftoff from the foul line to the hoop.

The always dramatic Jordan nailed a hanging 15-foot jumper as the buzzer ended Game 5 in the first round of the NBA playoffs. The Bulls beat the Cleveland Cavaliers and went on to make their first conference finals appearance since 1975. "That is probably the biggest shot I've hit in the NBA," said Jordan.

October 6
1993

Jordan shocked the world by announcing his NBA retirement. Four months later, he joined the Double-A farm team of baseball's Chicago White Sox.

1992 1993 1994

NBA Finals
1992

Jordan scored 35 first-half points in a Game 1 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers. MJ hit six three-pointers during his spree. Poor Blazers. Michael's shrug as he passed the Chicago bench may have showed that he even amazed himself!

March 1995

After two years away from hoops, MJ rejoined the Bulls and picked up right where he left off. In his fifth game back, he scorched the New York Knicks, scoring 55 points, and went on to lead the Bulls to the playoffs.

1991, '92, '93, '96 and

1997

Jordan was selected the Most Valuable Player of the NBA finals in each of these years and led the Bulls to five NBA World Championships. Any questions?

In his book Rare Air, MJ best sums up his career: "It's never been for money and it's never been for cheers. If you don't believe me, just watch. And take a good look, because one minute I'll be there and the next minute I'll be gone." Say it ain't so, Mike.

VENZAS

Tennis star Venus Williams rockets up the ranks.

ESPN ACTION

Winning Style

Even before she became a major title contender, Venus shook up the tennis world with her trademark beaded "do." When asked about her expectations before one tournament, she joked: "When I play my matches, my goal is for not one bead to fall out of my hair."

Power Play

Williams blasts serves of up to 122 mph, the second fastest in the history of the women's tour.

Heart's Desire

Williams wants to be a top-ranked tennis player—but she'd also like to be an architect or a firefighter.

Racing to the Top?

Tennis star Andre Agassi has called her "the best athlete the women's game has seen so far." He adds, "She's going to beat 99 percent of the girls because of the athlete she is."

Eye on the Competition

One of Williams's biggest future rivals may be her 16-year-old sister, Serena. They practice side by side. What happens when they play each other in a tournament? "She's my sister, but I want to win," Serena declared. "I'm going to try to win. I don't care who it is," Venus agrees.

The Williams File

Born: June 17, 1980

Birthplace: Lynwood, California

Current hometown: Palm Beach Gardens, Florida

Height: 5 feet 11 inches

Weight: 137 pounds

On the court: Plays right-handed; two-handed backhand. At 9, Venus was a tennis prodigy. In March, at 17, she won her first major Women's Tennis Association (WTA) tournament. In one year, she climbed more than 100 spots in the women's pro rankings, to No. 10 in the world.

The King of Quake

Quake champ Dennis Fong paves the way for pro game players.

By Gina Pera

Dennis Fong chuckles when his parents ask: "Did you practice your games today?" A few years ago, they urged him to study more and play less at the computer.

home a red Ferrari. That was also before he became the first action-game champion of the new AMD Professional Gamers League, where most competition takes place over the Internet. (For more info, check out www.pgl.com, the league's Web site.)

Once the technology improves, more and more people are expected to join in. "Anyone can enter the league; it will be bigger than the NBA," predicts Fong, 21, whose nickname is "Thresh."

What's the difference between playing at home and in front of a crowd?

"At home, you're on your own system. You're really comfortable. When you're out there and people cheer, it makes you play better."

Why the nickname "Thresh"?

"I used to use the name 'Threshold'—like threshold of pain or fear. When I logged onto a gaming service, it wouldn't fit, so I cut it short."

How did you get started?

"My younger brother's room is right next to mine, and I'd hear shooting and explosions. He was playing Doom. I thought it was really cool, and that's what started it all. When Doom II came out, I started playing an hour or two a night. Then I entered a tournament—and won!"

What is your game-playing schedule?

"I practice an hour a day. I'll play three, four or five hours a day during the week before a tournament."

Any advice for younger players?

"Be competitive, but remember that you're playing against real people. I've made the best friends on-line, all over the world."

Thresh Shares His Winning Ways

"A lot of the good players don't like to share their secrets," says champ Fong. "But that makes it harder for average players to get better—and better players improve the competition for everybody."

BLOCK THE SUN, NOT THE FUN!

TIPS

Watch the clock, especially between the hours of 10 and 4. A most important sun-smart tip nobody should ignore!

Make a statement with shades, a hat, and a wild T-shirt, all part of sun-safety gear.

As long as you protect yourself you have little to fear.

Block the sun all year round, be it winter, spring, summer or fall.

Don't forget to be sun-smart whether you're shoveling snow or playing ball.

Use sunblock with an SPF of at least 15, and reapply if you perspire. If you have fair skin, make sure to use an SPF of 30 or higher.

Remember your ears, nose, neck and hands; these areas can burn badly too. So cover them with sunblock if you know what's good for you!

Now that you have read these tips on how to block the sun,

Share your sun smarts with friends and family and have lots of outdoor fun!

Read and follow label directions.

Disney's MULAN in: MENDING THE WALL

IT'S HARVEST TIME BUT MULAN FINDS TIME TO MEND A WALL...

EACH STONE HAS ITS OWN WAY OF FITTING IN WITH THE OTHERS. YOU DON'T JUST PILE THEM ON TOP OF EACH OTHER. ARE YOU LISTENING TO ME, KHAN?

THIS BOULDER WILL HAVE TO BE MOVED BEFORE WE CAN PLOW THIS FIELD IN THE MORNING.

BUT IT'S MUCH TOO BIG TO LIFT. I'LL HAVE TO FIND A WAY TO PRY IT UP AND ROLL IT DOWNHILL TO THE RIVER.

BY THE WAY...THE
REGIONAL MAGISTRATE'S
ASSISTANT SAW THE
WORK YOU DID ON THE WALL.

HE GAVE THE THREE
OF US A PROMOTION!

COME ON, KHAN.
LET'S GET
THESE CROPS
TO THE MARKET.

LATER, BACK
AT THE FARM...

MULAN! SOME SOLDIERS
CAME AND LEFT A GIFT
IN THE BARN FOR YOU!

WHAT IS IT?

SOMETHING TO
MAKE YOUR WORK
EASIER.

A NEW PLOW!
JUST WHAT WE NEEDED!

DO YOU KNOW WHO SENT IT?

YES. I
HELPED A FRIEND
MEND A
WALL.

WHEN PLOWING, BE SURE TO FOLLOW THE
CONTOUR OF THE LAND.
ARE YOU LISTENING,
KHAN?

END

IN ONE MOVIE, I PAY TRIBUTE TO ONE OF MY IDOLS, SILENT FILM STAR BUSTER KEATON.

IN HIS MOVIE, STEAMBOAT BILL JR., THE FACADE OF A BUILDING FALLS ON HIM. LUCKILY, THE WINDOW FRAME CLEARS BUSTER'S BODY. ONE FALSE CALCULATION, AND HE WOULD HAVE BEEN HAMMERED INTO THE GROUND...

I RECREATED THAT SCENE BY HAVING A CEREMONIAL WALL FALL ON ME AND USING BUSTER'S IDEA OF SLIPPING THROUGH THE WINDOW FRAME.

SOMETIMES ALL THE PLANNING IN THE WORLD CAN'T STOP AN ACCIDENT.

IN ONE FILM I STAGED A FIGHT IN A SHOPPING MALL, AND DECIDED THAT IT WOULD BE A GREAT STUNT TO SLIDE DOWN AN ELECTRIFIED POLE COVERED IN BRIGHT LIGHTS. THE ELECTRICITY WAS SUPPOSED TO BE AT HALF VOLTAGE.

IT WASN'T. I MADE IT DOWN THE POLE, BUT MY HANDS WERE BADLY BURNED. OUCH!

JUST LIKE BUSTER, THE CALCULATIONS HAD TO BE EXACT OR I WOULD HAVE BEEN ONE SORE JACKIE IN THE MORNING.

I SHOULD HAVE LEARNED MY LESSON WITH FIRE--IF YOU'RE GOING TO PLAY WITH IT, YOU'RE GOING TO GET BURNED. BUT, I COULDN'T RESIST USING FIRE AGAIN IN A MARTIAL ARTS FILM.

YES, THEY WERE REAL COALS. AND, YES, I DID BURN MY HANDS ONCE AGAIN...NOT TO MENTION SETTING FIRE TO MYSELF! LUCKILY, MY STUNTMEN RAN OVER AND DOUSED ME WITH WATER.

IN THE FINAL BATTLE SCENE, I CRAWL OVER A BED OF HOT BURNING COALS.

BUT, THE MOST DANGEROUS STUNT-GONE-WRONG HAPPENED WHILE I WAS FILMING A MOVIE IN YUGOSLAVIA.

IT WAS A SIMPLE STUNT. ALL I HAD TO DO WAS JUMP FROM A WALL TO A TREE, AND USE THAT TREE TO SWING TO ANOTHER WALL. THE FIRST TIME WAS FINE. BUT, BEING A PERFECTIONIST, I HAD TO TRY AGAIN.

THIS TIME, THE TREE BROKE. THE CAMERA MAN BELOW ME RAN TO SAVE THE CAMERA INSTEAD OF HELPING TO BREAK MY FALL! AS A RESULT, I LANDED HEAD FIRST.

ALL MY FRIENDS WERE CRYING BECAUSE THEY THOUGHT THAT I WAS DYING. DOCTORS SAID THE ONLY REASON I SURVIVED WAS BECAUSE I WAS IN SUCH GOOD PHYSICAL CONDITION.

TODAY, I STILL HAVE A COIN-SIZED HOLE IN MY HEAD THAT VIBRATES WHEN I TALK AND WHICH I HAVE TO GUARD DURING FIGHTS. ONE KICK TO MY HEAD NOW COULD BE THE MOST DANGEROUS STUNT OF ALL.

LUCKILY, NOT ALL MY STUNTS ARE SO DEATH-DEFYING.

IN ONE MOVIE THERE IS A SCENE WHERE I NEED TO EAT HOT PEPPERS AND SPIT THE JUICE IN THE EYES OF MY OPPONENTS TO TEMPORARILY BLIND THEM. (THEY WERE REALLY NASTY PIRATE SORTS, SO DON'T FEEL SORRY FOR THEM.)

WELL, WE HAD NO TIME TO MAKE FAKE PEPPERS, SO INSTEAD, I ATE BIG HANDFULS OF REAL HOT PEPPERS.

NEEDLESS TO SAY, THOSE TEARS YOU SEE ON THE SCREEN ARE REAL. I COULDN'T TASTE ANYTHING FOR DAYS!

MANY OF MY MOVIES SHOW OUTTAKES OF ALL MY STUNTS GONE WRONG AT THE END.

BUT, DON'T WORRY ABOUT ME, I LOVE MAKING MOVIES!

YOU SEE WHY IT'S NICE TO TAKE A BREAK FROM BEING A REAL ACTION STAR AND BE THE COMIC BOOK CHARACTER SPARTAN X FOR A WHILE?

IT'S A LOT LESS DANGEROUS.

OUCH!
OH WELL,
BACK TO WORK!

Will you still love him
when there's more
of him to love?

Remember, owning a dog is a lifetime commitment.

Puppies are adorable and irresistible, but before you follow the impulse to bring one home ask yourself if you're ready for the responsibility.

As your puppy grows into a dog you'll have to take care of his feeding, grooming and health care, as well as all the financial bills - for the rest of his life.

So think before you add a puppy to your family. It's important to use your head before you lose your heart.

WITH THE FEARSOME COMMOOTION SWIRLING BELOW, NOT A MAN THOUGHT TO TEND TO THE HELM. OUR PATHETIC OLD BUCKET WAS AT THE MERCY OF THE GALE-LIKE WINDS WHICH HAD BLOWN UP SUDDENLY.

AND AS LADY LUCK WOULD HAVE IT, THE WINDS WERE A-BLOWING US REMORSELESSLY STRAIGHT INTO A HUGE ICEBERG...

...WHICH WAS FRONTED BY A POWERFUL AND VIOLENT MAELSTROM!

STILL THE PANDEMONIUM OF PIRATES AND THEIR PREY RAGED BELOW, OBLIVIOUS TO THE IMPENDING DISASTER!

WHEN FROM THE UNFATHOMABLE DEPTHS OF THIS ICY AND MALIGNANT SEA BROKE A HORROR THE MERE SIGHT OF WHICH WOULD FREEZE THE BLOOD OF THE BRAVEST MAN.
